Gas on Glass Miele KM 30xx Series Gas Cooktops

Miele Australia introduces an air of elegance to gas cooking with the new KM 30xx Gas Cooktop Series, featuring an award-winning, sleek new design and enhanced features for even greater convenience.

Already boasting an iF product design award in Europe, the striking KM 30xx Series Gas Cooktops are available in three or five burner configurations featuring stylish black ceramic glass screens with flush and durable enamelled cast iron trivets. While a protective stainless steel frame and solid metal knobs accentuate the high quality, elegant design.

More than just a design element, the flush cast iron trivets conveniently allow pots and pans to be moved easily, and safely, by simply sliding them from one gas burner to another. This eradicates the need for lifting heavy pots and pans and the potential hazard of spilling their hot contents.

Furthermore, in a Miele first, these heavy-duty trivets significantly reduce unnecessary cleaning time as they are completely dishwasher-proof, while the stylish glass screen can be effortlessly wiped clean.

Models in the KM 30xx Gas Cooktop Series are also equipped with a host of features to deliver incredibly easy operation as well as the ultimate safety. On selected models, these include electronic re-ignition should a flame be unexpectedly extinguished, a residual heat indicator for optimum protection from injury and burns, as well as a minute minder.

In addition, with a rapid switch-off function all gas rings can be turned off and flames extinguished at the push of a single button, while the electronic system lock can be activated to prevent unauthorised use, particularly ideal to ensure the safety of children in the kitchen.

Miele's attractive KM 30xx Series of Gas Cooktops can be viewed at all Miele Centers in Australia.
